

Multi-view

Benefits over method on the right:

- you do not have signatures that are defined by a single component
- the exposures can be absolute exposures, the units being "number of segment-equivalents", "number of changepoints-equivalents", etc.

the weights, or exposures (shared)

n : number of samples

k : number of signatures

$c1$: number of components of feature 1

Geoff

